

ESSA Membership Directory 2009

Historically the British Exhibition Contractors Association (BECA) sent out a hard copy membership directory to you. ESSA, the Event Supplier and Services Association, is the new association for contractors and suppliers to the events industry formed in January 2008 by the merger between the British Exhibition Contractors Association (BECA) and the Association of Exhibition Contractors (AEC).

Under ESSA sustainability policies we have invested the costs of publishing the directory into our website which will still allow you to source services in the same way as the Directory.

What is ESSA?

ESSA members benefit from a wide range of support including information, training, and advice on such issues as legislation, health & safety, access to industry research. ESSA shares its resources with its sister organisations, the Association of Event Organisers (AEO), and Association of Event Venues (AEV), benefiting from a central information source resulting in the development of a closer relationship and understanding between organisers, their suppliers and venues.

Why Work with ESSA Members?

ESSA members are required to submit company accounts, proof of insurance, 2 referees (one of whom must be a current member and one for whom they have previously completed work. We take very seriously the use of the ESSA logo and members are required to adhere to the ESSA Code of Conduct and Quality Service Charter. The ESSA Bond insures against work undertaken by some of our members in the case of non-completion, guaranteeing that the work will be carried out and completed by another ESSA member, although it is rarely used.
